Saanich Cats Keep All Nine

By PAT DUFOUR Times Staff

Whether or not cats have nine lives, their tenure will be more secure in Saanich after Monday.

In eloquence matching Dick Whittington's when he took his favorite feline to the royal palace in London, cat-lovers of the municipality came to their defence at the council They were out to get an amendment to the Animals Bylaw off the books, which they claimed was illegal and would encourage cat-trapping by residents who were not of their "Please sirs," pleaded Maggi Lynn of the Greater Victoria Animals' Crusaders, "Don't let this amendment stay as it is. It is one of destruction, not protection.'

She was referring to a section, passed in March, which states any cat found "at large, upon a highway or public place, not accompanied by a competent person or in effective control" was contravening municipal law and could be disposed of could be disposed of.

Ald. Mel Couvelier tried to suggest to Miss Lynn and her sober-faced supporters that "this is a good bylaw," saying it merely gave officials the authority to protect cats found wandering, allowing them to be taken to the pound, where they would be retrieved by their owners within 96 hours.

The cat-lovers stood firm.

Miss Lynn contended, "We have been in-even tougher in Moose Jaw, Sask., where cats were required to be leashed.

Miss Lynn and her band stood firm.

A compromise was finally reached. On the suggestion of Couvelier, council agreed to invite Miss Lynn to help them revamp the legislation which Ald. 'Sandy' Noel conjectured must have "pussy-footed

The Fraser River was expected to reach the 20-foot mark at Mission in the Fraser Valley today and water levels rose Monday in the interior.

The 20-foot level at Mission is used as the first emergency mark although Fraser Valley dikes have been bullt to with-stand a flood of 26 feet. The emergency level is 24 feet

Experts believe that lakes and rivers in the South Okannear their peak, and say they do not expect 1972 flood levels

Also on the Okanagan Lake system, Skaha Lake was expected to reach its flood level soon. Okanagan Lake itself was rising an inch and a half a day and was five inches below flood level.

Provincial Chief Hydrologist Harry Hunter said Monday the Similkameen River, which is the main cause of the high levels at Osoyoos, peaked unday at Hedley.

Council Tenders Its Regrets

A defensive Victoria city council paved the way last Thursday for a 55-unit condominium development which will displace about 15 persons in low-income housing. Despite strong opposition to the development at an earlier public hearing, council members - with the exception of Mr. Sam Bawlf - rationalized their decision on several grounds. The displaced housing was decaying; grounds were not being adequately maintained; there were no criticisms of the condominium design, and finally, that old bromide, the development will add to the city's housing stock.

Familiar arguments heard in every urban council chamber across this land. And with the exception of Mr. Bawlf no one raised the salient point: where do the displaced persons go? Certainly not into condominiums that begin at $40,000. "More and more people are losing out in the numbers game," Mr. Bawlf said. "We are obviously pushing a certain segment of the population around."

That "certain segment" encompasses a large section of the population now. Mortgage money is unavailable except at exorbitant rates. Studies indicate that in order to afford a home an income of $18,000 per annum is required. The average Canadian income is a little over $12,000 per annum, Poor people earn much less.

What happens when they are forced to move? Economics often drive them to seek social assistance, which means a hotel or motel for $20 or $40 per day at public expense.

Nobody wins in that kind of a numbers game. A well-designed condominium project on Burdett will spruce up the area; most of the units will probably be sold before the door bells are working. But council cannot glory in architectural designs when it throws out the larger human design with well meaning regrets but without suggesting an alternative.

"... and if this doesn't do the job ... then I would not hesitate to turn those prices and wages into pillars of salt ..."

Foibles of Free Heroin

In narrowly approving a resolution calling for controlled heroin supplies for addicts the British Columbia Bar Association adds weight to an argument favored by some government members and others involved in narcotics addiction control. But many lay persons, and not a few professionals, remain unalterably opposed to the solution. Should alcoholics be provided with free liquor, they ask?

Heroin is different from alcohol in that the white powder is illegal. Addicts pay up to $300 per day on the black market once they are "hooked' and usually resort to crime in order to support their habit. Those persons in favor of supplying addicts with drugs reason that crime will be reduced and the illegal drug market would dry up.

Yet it might also be true that if heroin were available in controlled dosages, the moral and legal prejudices against its use could also be reduced. Britain has supplied heroin addicts for years with qualified success. Initially drug addicts and drug-related offenses plunged down, but statistics indicate a resurgence of heroin use in the sixties. Incidence of drug users appears to be related as much to cultural factors as the ease with which the drug can be acquired.

If British Columbia embarked on a program similar to the British experiment, this province would be the first political enclave in North America to do so. Instantly the province would become a chemical Mecca for every strung-out "junkie" in North America. Even if the program succeeded, the cost to the taxpayer could be horrendous; if it failed, what is now an urgent problem might be multiplied 20-fold to the point of no return. And medical experts say the body builds up a resistance to the narcotic. Thus addicts would always be looking for more heroin to satisfy their needs, increasing the crime rate as well as illegal trafficking.

These arguments add up to strong doubts about the efficacy of such a program. Free heroin would have to be combined with social and psychological programs aimed at breaking the insidious addiction. Despite the fact that the government sells alcohol at a high price, problems with that common drug continue to grow. Free heroin — even tightly controlled — sounds like a disaster.

Some Bargain

What has happened to those smart fellows in our B.C. government? It seems to me they have done very few things right, judging from how they have had to back down and amend almost everything they have brought up.

One glaring example of their stupidity, or should I be charitable and say, "their ineptitude", is I.C.B.C. As I recall they were going to show B.C., or the world "how car insurance costs could be cut in half or thereabouts".

Well, it seems they are having trouble making it go at higher rates than before I.C.B.C. I paid $19 more and won't get the refund because I changed cars, even though their scheduled rate was the same as for my previous car. On top of that, coverage is poorer, as in a collision both parties will be assessed the amount of the deductable — just another hidden

And now, where other provinces reduced the gas tax, to give the motorist a break on the high increase in gas prices, we in B.C. have to pay the full shot to help keep I.C.B.C. alive. Another increase in the cost of our car insurance.

These same smart guys who knew all about insurance now have become cry babies crying that the previous government and the insurance companies didn't give them any figures or rates. Did not these same smart guys use figures in their criticisms of previous insurance rates? They most certainly did not use their heads. On top of all this I.C.B.C. probably doesn't pay property or income tax which the previous insurers paid. So would you say the autoplan is giving us a bargain? — Disillusioned.

A Province Behind a Fence?

OTTAWA — Immigration Minister Robert Andras has now confirmed what an unnamed official of the immigration department observed recently with commendable | accuracy but, A apparently, without authorization.

"There is no way constitutionally we would or could turn over the power of veto on immigration to any province in Canada because immigration is clearly a federal responsibility."

This is not one of those whistle stop announcements to which the public latterly become accustomed. Nor will it come as news to a fascinated department because it is established policy and was spelled out by the minister in May in a confidential letter to Jean Bienvenue, the Quebec Minister of Immigration.

It is not difficult to understand Quebec's interest in the matter. It is natural that the government in Quebec City should feel a special sense of responsibility for the survival of the French language and culture. In arguing the case for federalism, Mr. Bourassa maintains that "cultural sovereignty" is a compatible objective and asserts that the province ought to possess the full array of powers necessary for its realization.

Few Immigrants

The difficulty is that the French of old France have demonstrated over a very long period a great reluctance to leave home. It was once hoped that more vigorous Quebec efforts in the immigration field would overcome the difficulty. There was also a theory that the imbalance could be redressed by attracting immigrants from other Latin states who would then adhere by choice to the French cultural group.

But the hopes and theories have produced disappointments. The statistics continue to be disturbing and the behavior of the immigrants (notably the Italians) has frustrated the Quebec Government and produced unpleasant political-controversies.

It is clear that the provinces do have certain rights in the immigration field. Article 95 of the constitution provides for concurrent powers. There is, however, an important proviso: "any law of the Legislature of a Province relative to... Immigration shall have effect in and for the Province as long and as far only as it is not repugnant to any Act of the Parliament of Canada."

Mr., Bienvenue is apparently persuaded that, since this is a matter of special concern only to his province, a Quebec veto ought not to be considered repugnant either by Ottawa or by other provinces.

Nevertheless, there certainly is an obligation on the federal government to defend the powers assigned to it by the constitution until that constitution is changed through agreement and proper procedures.

The federal powers in this case are not in doubt; they have been exercised since Confederation, often in dramatic fashion. It is interesting that the direct challenges did not come from Quebec but from British Columbia, which had not heard of cultural sovereignty but did on occasion become very emotional about Asiatic "cheap labor." In 1884 the Conservative government disallowed a B.C. Act to prevent the immigration of Chinese. In 1885, it struck down another such Act.

When the Liberals, who were keen on provincial rights, replaced the Conservatives at Ottawa, British Columbia tried again. Indeed, the province showed great persistence. Despite their dislike of federal intervention, the Liberals disallowed the B.C. Act of 1898; disallowed another in 1900; another in 1902; another in 1903; another in 1904; another in 1903; another in 1908. This list does not include federal vetoes of Acts which sought similar objective by different means nor does it include cases of reservation. The last case recorded was in 1922; disallowance being followed by submission of the legislation to the Supreme Court which upheld federal authority.

Thus the constitutional position couldnot be more clear. What makes the constitutional difficulty insurmountable, however, is an underlying practical difficulty: it would doubtless be possible to prevent immigrants, unwanted by Quebec, from entering the province at Montreal, but how can they be prevented from going to Montreal once they have entered Canada at Toronto?

This would be possible only if we are prepared to restrict freedom of movement in Canada, but freedom of movement is one of the characteristics of the Canadian common market which we have been building for a century. It is taken for granted in many government policies implemented without challenge; for example, the manpower mobility policies of the department presided over by Mr. Andras.

It is interesting that this was recognized as far back as 1885 when the Conservative government, in its second act of disallowance, condemned the B.C. measure as an interference with the power of Parliament to regulate trade and commerce.

An argument may be made that the common market is imperfect now. From time to time, and sometimes with federal connivance, provinces have found ways of interfering with the free flow of this tends to happen where situations are fuzzy enough to create confusion; where, for example, one power can be cited in apparent contradiction to another.

Nothing Fuzzy

There is nothing fuzzy here. Any attempt to police a provincial border against the movement of citizens or landed immigrants would certainly provoke a public outcry; it is impossible to believe that it would be tolerated by any federal government.

It is puzzling that such a controversy should develop when the practical problem is so obvious. In fact, Mr. Bienvenue is not the first Quebec minister to advance such a claim in the apparent belief that his province could be accommodated either by some inter-governmental agreement or perhaps by constitutional modification. The idea, current since the time of Jean Lesage, is a shimmering mirage of Quebec politics. It appears, disappears and reappears, presumably because those who pursue it cannot bring themselves to admit that it is not simply a proposal for some new inter-governmental arrangement of convenience but an aspiration that could be realized only by changing the reality of Canada.

Group Home

On Thursday, June 6, your newspaper printed an article regarding the opposition of a number of Fernwood area residents to the establishment of a group home on Taunton Road. I woud appreciate the opportunity to correct some of the misleading statements reported in the article.

First of all I feel that it is important to point out that this is not a "group home for juvenile delinquents" as Mrs. Polson insists upon despite our efforts to clarify this. It is rather a home for up to six adolescents who have been made wards of the Superintendent of Child Welfare for a wide variety of reasons. It indicates an appalling lack of sympathy and understanding to suggest that these chldren should be "institutionalized" or 'housed at Cool-aid' rather than be given the opportunity to live and function in the community in a supportive home like environment, and to continue with their school programs and their community activities.

I would also like to point out that the negotiations for the establishment of this home have been in progress since January and that the contract was drawn up and signed some time before the petition protesting it was sent to the Department of Human Resources. Since we knew of no complaints of this nature regarding 20 other group homes which are and have been functioning for some time with no negative responses from their fespective communities, we were quite surprised to learn of the existence of a petition, especially since no one from the neighborhood bothered to confront us directly about our projected plans with the exception of one thoughtful gentleman who, after learning the actual details, refused to sign the petition.

It appears somewhat irresponsible that the petitioners neglected to find out the details involved in our plans for a group home but relied instead upon the imaginings of one woman. The petition very definitely perpetrated misinformation.

When we held a meeting to deal with the petition only 20 people were present out of the 58 who had signed. Many of these individuals appeared interested and supportive once the whole concept of group homes was clarified and our plans and intentions were made known. Our children will be fully supervised at all times, there should be no complaints about parking as we have only one vehicle and the children are not of driving age; therefore, I do not think we should be held accountable for the traffic consection on this road.

We would appreciate the publication of this letter for general information to the public of Victoria. — Mr. and Mrs. J. Nussbarmer, 1447 Taunton Road.

Foreign Faces

In a recent edition of the Times there was a full page advertisement inserted by one of our department stores covering six TV sets.

The faces shown on each and everyone of the sets were American TV stars such as Cannón, the Walton boy, etc.—not one single Canadian. I suppose we must presume that the advertisement was basically American or perhaps the average Canadian would recognize these faces rather than men like Trudeau, Stanfield, Lewis or in fact some of our own TV figures such as Tommy Hunter, Ian Tyson or Wayne and Shuster.

There is little wonder that our struggles for independence are fruitless when the big operators, such as the large department stores, prefer to show American faces rather than our own. In my view it is tragic.—M. P. B. Wrixon, 1701 Cedar Hill Cross Rd.

Planner

I believe your news item appearing in the Times of June 12 is seriously misleading with regard to my remarks concerning Mr. Rod Clack; specifically, you state that I am not "bewitched by ... his qualifications for shaping the future look of Victoria's Inner Harbor". Nor, you go on to say, am I "bewitched by the wizardry of our former city planner."

In my judgment Rod Clack is an outstanding planner and has contributed immensely to the development of the city of Victoria. The point I was endeavouring to make at my press conference was that Mr. Clack is no wizard or miracle worker and therefore the Community should not expect miracles from one individual. The prevailing myth that Rod Clack was responsible for the conception and development of Bastion and Centennial Squares is also most misleading, inasmuch as many citizens including, of former Mayor of this Mr. R. B. Wilson, were deeply involved in the evolution of these magnificent

The point I was trying to stress at my press conference was that the redevelopment of the Inner Harbour will require the co-operation and co-ordination of many professional disciplines and the three levels of government. This planning process is in sharp contrast with the arbitrary and unilateral action by the Minister of Lands and Resources. The use of Mr. Clack is obviously an effort to add a degree of legitimacy to a thoroughly illegitimate action by the Provincial Government and, indeed, it is an affront to the Council-and Administration of a City which has a national reputation for its enlightened and progressive planning. — Peter Pollen, Mayor.

(Ed. note: The news item attempted to represent fairly Mayor Pollen's typically vigorous phraseology.)

On this occasion, the argument was over the layout of a new road alignment and im-provement project at the Blanshard - Collinson-McClure

Two weeks after work had actually begun on tearing up the roads and sidewalks, Ald. Sam Bawlf (chairman of the transportation and land-use planning committee) indig-nantly told city council that some aspects of the project, including a section of pro-posed one-way road, had "sneaked in" unbeknown to

The point to bear in mind is that similar confusion has arisen in the past. There have been other occasions when council members have de-clared their ignorance of a project either at an advanced stage of planning or even under construction.

The explanation to emerge at that time was that the proj-ect had been funnelled ect had been funnelled through committee and full-council stages during Bawli-absence on boilday. Hardly a serious matter, particularly aswall were subsequently over-ruled, but it should have been handled differently.

Far more serious, however, were the patently clear indications that hardly a single member of city council rea-lized the import of approving an earlier road project, the $160,000 easterly extension of Finlayson between Cook and Cedar Hill, until the stretch was almost completed.

Then it was that Mayor eter Pollen denounced this 'four-lane monster waiting to pounce on little old Finlay-son," and the agonizing began over preserving the roaquiet residential character.

As the controversy raged on Pollen admitted the extension was "grotesquely redundant" in the light of council's determination not to proceed earlier plans to make Finlay-son a cross-town route. The project went ahead, he claimed, largely due to "inerone imagines the president and secretary Kissinger emitting vast sighs of relief as they soared out of their homeland for foreign shores in pursuit of the generation of peace. There is little here any longer to encourage them to dwell upon their nobility. Beset by sheriffs, prosecutors, querulous scribes and a illen populace, what great man would not welcome a grand tour abroad accepting the salute of cannon and the deference of shelks to remind them that dishonor in the homeland is the true st of prophethood?

Kissinger's brief stay in Washington after his long stay in Araby must have been particularly unsettling. Having returned a hero only to find that the press was more interested in whether he had lied to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee about wiretapping, he was disagreeably reminded that while he had been laboring on the generation of peace abroad a generation of cynicism had come to full flower at home.

As for the President, whose seventh crisis now seems likely to afflict the country longer than the Vietnam War, he would be less than human if he did not feel an impulse to settle permanently among foreigners and let the subpoenas gather dust at the White House gate. Security officials travelling with Trudeau said later that it was the most physical demonstration of the campaign so far. Liberal aides saw in the incident proof that Trudeaumania is not dead.

His appearance in Toronto was chosen as the time for the announcement of Liberal urban transportation assistance policy. But although reporters were given the policy in great detail, Trudeau touched on the topic only briefly in his speech.

In fact, the major nouncement, involving estimated expenditures of $275 million over the next five years to aid commuter and urban transit systems, was greeted with dead silence by

The Debate Lingers On

Proposed limits on tiebate by members of the legislature were themselves debated late into the night Monday and de-scribed by one Liberal MLA. as an attempt by the govern-ment to weaken and fragement the opposition.

Garde Gardom (L-Vancouver-Point Grey) termed "ridiculous" the proposed limit on time for debate of government spending es-timates, which works out to an average of seven minutes per MLA on each department.

"Questionable performance requires intensive scrutiny," he said. "What you're propos-ing is an extension of doctri-naire socialism.

"You want to weaken the opposition, you want to frag-ment them left, right and centre. You want to have them quarrelling among themselves for the fair allot-ment of time. This is just bread on the water for this kind of thing.

The time limits, in brief, would be a total of 135 hours on spending estimates the government's budget for 20 departments, totalling well over $2 billion 40 minutes per MLA for bills in second reading debate, which is ap-proval in principle, and 30 minutes for third and final reading debate.

Fellow Liberal Allan Wil-Fellow Liberal Allan Williams (I.—West Vancouver-Howe Sound) pointed out the "abuse and over-use of rules we already have. I don't think we'll achieve the desired maturity as MLAS by making these rule changes.

"Never before in 100 years has a government suggested that it be necessary to curb debate," added Pat McGeer

"I've never been in Victoria at such a time of year," he said, referring to the length of

All persons using ambu-lance services will be billed a flat $5 a call beginning July 1, Health Minister Dennis Cocke said Monday:

And the bill will come from the provincial Emergency Medical Services Commission, not from the ambulance com-pany which makes the call Cocke told the legislature.

Although ambulance opera-tions will continue in their present form for another six months or more, B.C. will assume financial responsibility

Ambulance companies will no longer bill privately, he said, and municipalities will no longer have to subsidize the companies providing service to their areas. Previous charges to patients from ambulance companies have ranged from nothing — when emergency services are heavily subsi-dized by municipalities — to $50 and more,

The B.C. government will bill for the full cost of service, when it thinks another agency should pay, said Cocke for example, the fed-eral government, the Work-men's Compensation Board or insurance companies.

Compensation Benefits Increased

Bills setting up a powerful universities council of 11 members to act as buffer be-tween university and government and increasing workmen's compensation benefits were given approval in the legislature Monday night.

Amendments to the Work-men's Compensation Act passed third reading unanimously, but opposition MLAs objected to several sections of a new Universities Act which Education Minister Educ leen Dailly brought in only a week ago — before granting second reading, or approval

Don't Hire Smartest, Employers Advised

VANCOUVER (CP) Employers should avoid hir-ing the smartest candidate for every job, the personnel director of a tractor company said Monday

Charles Loyst of Finning Tractor and Equipment Co. told some 300 delegates to the Canadian Association of Equipment Distributors convention there is a danger in placing the smart worker in too low a capacity.

'It is the high school gradu ate who is given menial work that is leaving."

Flexible hours are a decided asset, based on Finning experience, he said, but not yet adaptable to hourly-rated contract situations that call for overtime after eight hours of work.

Finning has noticed a-marked change in worker at-titude with the introduction of flex time. "You don't have to give the boss the old 'Grand-ma is dying' bit to get Friday afternoon off, and they ap-preciate it," said Loyst. He said changing attitudes deciding not to work at all.

This means bringing the employee into his work in a new way.

Loyst told of how Finning achieved a marked reduction in labor turnover at the company switchboard by letting pany switchourt by letting the operators devise their own work schedule and giving them the responsibility for physical decoration and main-teance of the area.

All firms, he said, develop a company "culture" and if they fail to recognize it by providing full opportunity for job satisfaction and advancement they will end up by losing all the bright people and tenning the dynes.

Natural gas would become available to all major U.S. markets with the Canadian route, and only 9 per cent of the natural gas would be used in transmission, as opposed to 16 per cent forecast by El Paso, he said.

These things have convinced 26 companies to spend $70 million pursuing this ap-plication," he said.

However, Ward declined to predict how the Federal Power Commission and other agencies would rule.

"If it were not for the fact that another country is interposed in our plan, there would be no question — we wouldn't have a competing application," he said. "I can't make a prediction as matters stand."

Because of Canadian requirements, he said, the pipe-line, by its fifth year of opera-tion, will transmit natural gas in equal national shares, with each nation claiming 2.25 bil-lion cubic feet a day of its ca-pacity. Canadian loads will be less than one-half of capacity before that, he said, because Canada's petroleum fields have not been developed sufficiently to require more.

Equipment Lack Perils Projects

VANCOUVER (CP) An unprecedented shortage of new and used equipment is afflicting the Canadian construction equipment distribution field, senior officers of the Canadian Association of Equipment Distributors said Monday.

Charles Crocker of Vancouver, outgoing president of the association of some 520 firms and branches, and Lorne Harris of Thunder Bay, incoming president, agreed they have never seen anything like it.

And recent sales of 39 Canadian-made H-400 front-end loaders to China will only tighten the market in that care egory of $200,000 machines, they said.

New equipment sales are on a futures basis as to price and delivery, they said. The time lag can be up to .12 months, where it used to be 90 days. "We have a number of U.S.

leaders in our field this con-vention," Crocker said, "and they all suggest that the shortage will continue for at least a year.

sales lots of used equipment. Distributor inventories are at a 30-year low, said Harris

This shortage of equipment, and of skilled operators, casts doubt on Canada's ability to enter immediately into schemes such as the James Bay hydro development, Alberta tar sands project, and the Mackenzie Valley pipeline, all at the same time, the officials said.

Fast Ball Fine, But How to Use It, Better

At one time Eddie Feigner could probably throw a soft-ball faster than anyone else. Perhaps he still can, on oc-casion, but that's not the point in pitching.

Author of that remark is a man who should know. Eddie Feigner, who was born Myrle V. King in Walla Walla, Washington, 49 years ago, was a visitor in town last night as a member of the softball presentation: The King and His

If he is one of a kind, it could well be. For this is the 29th season of the King, Feigner, and His Court; and if he's lost a little off his fastball in that time, it doesn't really bother him. For now his show is also a "fun game", with Feigner pitching blindfolded, between his legs — "you have to be careful", from second base, and also conducting a brief clinic of the history of all 'pitches in a softball player's repertoire,

It was a fine show, again, and if the King and His Court met their match in Bates, that was to be expected too.

"We respect this team," first baseman Al Jackson remarked when he was here last year, and after he had struck out twice. And the reason was easy to understand from Jackson and the reason was easy to understand from Jackson that the struck out twice. And the reason was easy to understand from Jackson that the struck of the

Because just one year earlier, 1972, Jackson had been to bat 462 times without striking out, and even last year he hit 94 home runs. Against Bates he now has been handcuffed for two straight games, Dave Ruthowsky turning in a masterful exhibition on Monday.

No matter how it's sliced Feigner and his troupe do come to win, if they can, because that's their game, and also their

Under Pressure Is the Key

But if they lose, it takes nothing away from the show; and Feigner is quick and eager to defend "fast pitch" as he terms today's game, and also to hand out a tip or two.

For example, when queried on the value of the fastest ball in the game, a recorded 104 mph in California, and something over 120 mph at the University of Washington, he downplayed the whole idea.

"Speed isn't that important," he said, "unless you use it properly. There are other pitches just as important. You can't curve a ball as much if you throw it fast (it is said he can curve a ball 18 inches), and the only time you should position for a fast ball.

"Just standing back and firing doesn't mean a thing. It's what you do with it under pressure, as with a man on third,

In comparison, it should be noted that rapid Robert Feller of baseball fame could throw a baseball at 96.8 mph. And if that's quick, Rhyne Duren of the Yankees was a tick

There are other tales too of the merits of a softball pitcher, such as the time in Madison Square Carden when Babe Ruth struck out repeatedly. The Babe became so infuriated he finally grabbed some softballs and fungoed them up to the "I just wanted to see if they could be hit, Feigner himself has faced major league batters many times and they didn't get many fouls even. It is said that Willie Mays went down swinging 20 straight times in one test.

A Place in the Majors?

Sure, it's a different game, from a different angle, which brings up another interesting point made by Feigner.

He feels a softball pitcher could play in the majors, perhaps as a relief pitcher. He would have to adjust his style to the smaller ball and the longer pitching distance. The softball mound is 46 feet from home plate; in baseball the distance is 60 feet six inches.

It shouldn't be too difficult to change he suggested. Apparently it already has been tried as an experiment, and major league hitters didn't fare too well either.

As for the arm, softball pitchers go on and on, while most baseball pitchers peter out after 10 or 12 good seasons, at best. So the strain obviously is less.

Feigner himself is proof that age is no barrier. "Oh, the arm is all right," he said; "it never bothers me." As it is Feigner pitches over 200 games a year, begging off in favor of his soh, Eddie Jr., only when double and triple headers take their toll. "This year we are scheduled to play 54 games in the month of July alone," he explained.

"We'll play about 250-260 games this season," he added "We get invited to play about 500 to 600, but we can't accept them all. The crowds have been better this year than before so the response has to be gratifying."

If he had one beef, it didn't ine had one beet, it duit sound her professional jealousy. He said if there's one thing a showman wants it is to follow a good act. He didn't think the Queen and Her Maids who played here Saturday fitted that discription. "They're a poor show," he said.

And no, there is no thought of retirement. "Why should I as long as the invitations keep coming in."

So who knows. Perhaps he could yet get to play in the majors. That's the one invitation he hasn't received yet.

Bates Give the 'King' Unregal Pounding

By ERNIE FEDORUK Times Staff

There are two conclusions to be drawn from Victoria Bates' 9-0 humiliation of the fouring King and His Court fastball team Monday night at Royal Athletic Park.

The first and obvious one is that Ed Feigner, who lists his age as 49, may have lost a littile zip from the pitches he threw 10 and 20 years ago.
Ed Feigner is "the King" still touring, still the showman, and honest enough to concede publicly that Bates "are one of the best teams in the courter." And that brings up the second conclusion:

Bates are good Darn good!

Too often acknowledgment of respect from nearest neigh bors is slow in coming. The tardiness is prevalent in cases where local balent abounds For that reason, the case parallels the old proverb of "not being able to see the forest for the trees."

That seems to be so with Except for Mike Taaffe, the landed immigrant from Campbell River, and pitchers Dave Ruthowsky and Stan

Kern, Herb Bate recruited from his backyard and yours.

Already this season Bates Eight of their nine losses have come at the hands of rivals in the classy Northwest Interna-tional Men's Fastball League.

Pitching is the big key to softball success, and both Ruthowsky and Kern have drawn more than their fair share of the credit.

That's why Monday was, at reigner's expense, and evening of revelation. There's more to Bates than their two big pitchers. The hitters made that obvious.

handle most senior teams. Yet Bates tagged him for 15 hits in the five innings they batted. Included in the bar-home run by Don Lancaster. After scoring the nine runs and 15 hits, Bates obviously felt they made their point. Or why would Ken Bate and Bob Burrows swing half-heartedly while going down as Feigner's rage was an over-the-fence

final strikeout victims? Feigner's fastballs really puzzle to Bate batters. Granted, the Victoria total didn't seem too be much of a worked with only three mates to back him up. Several Bate hits for triples and inside-thepark homers would have been easy outs for a regulation nine-man team. There were enough bonafide smashes, however, to indicate Herb Bate was more on his side than Kern and Ruth-Ruthowsky, of course, did his bit. To many in the crowd of about 2,000, he was the scene-stealer as he held the four-man team to a single by Gary West and a double by Floyd Berger.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Left-hooking Jorge Ahumada of Argentina is convinced he should be the light heavyweight champion today.

"I am the champ and I'll come back to Albuquerque again to prove it," said Ahumada, who came out with a draw in 15 rounds against hometown hero Bob Foster Monday night.

Joe Shows Old Style

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazker blasted his way back into the heavyweight title pic-ture Monday night and cast a giant shadow over Jerry Quarry's dream of ever wear-

"I wanted the public to see that I'm going back to being the old Smokin' Joe," Frazier said moments after stopping Quarry at 1:37 of the fifth round of their scheduled 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

"All the things they said I couldn't do, I did tonight," Frazier said.

He also proved the new Quarry is no more dangerous than the old one who was beaten in seven reunds by Fra-zier five years ago.

opened by Frazier early in the fifth round, led referee

Joe Louis to stop the fight.

"Everything I worked so, hard for just didn't work," said Quarry, who needed 15 stitches to close the out above his kaft eye and three stitches, to bind a smaller wound above his right eye.

"I had a very long clusive dream," Quarry said of his quest for the heavyweight title. "I'm not sure I can make it now."

Quarry has a string of six knockouts since ending a brief retirement 18 months ago.

For Frazier, who weighed 212 pounds to 197½ for Quarry, the victory provided an answer to the critics who said he didn't have it any more.
'I keep telling people that I can box," said Frazier. "They said 'no,' but I showed them tonight that I can. They said I can't hit with my right hand. I showed them differently."

Francis' 'Things to Do' Include Helping Golfers

"One of the great problems facing an active man is to know when to quit; if not to retire, to go on to other things," says Francis G. Winspear. "Never look back. There are things to be done."

The wisdom is welcome, but Francis Winspear is "doing things" for Vancouver Island goff in a more tangible way.

The part-time Ardmore resident and the founder of one of

The part-time Ardmore resident and the founder of one of Canada's largest accountancy firms will sponsor the Island Cup matches this year.

It means the Island Cup series, suggested by retired professional Al Zimmerman and introduced last year, will have more to offer than honor when the top 10 Island amateurs play the top 10 pros in the two-day matches later this year.

"Things," like Winspear, keep happening, and that's why I regard the game as my favorite and the sport as the greatest fraternity in the world. Zimmerman asked, Winspear, disligant No fanfare, no stipulations.

epear obliged. No fanfare, no supulations.
Yet here is a man who played to a scratch handicap, or better, in big business. Along with the likes of the late Max Bell, Winspear is one of those Prairie rascals who refused to believe the rules and hand-me-outs of high finance "had to come" from Eastern Canada

* * *

They were successful in breaking the myth of Eastern superiority and bringing economic respectability to the West.

Francis Winspear, I suspect, would get along famously with Father Athol Murray, the down-to-earth "Pere" from Saskatchewan's Notre Dame College, Father Murray is more nationalistic than the Maple Leaf, and figures everybody should be as well.

In his autobiography "Out of My Mind" (printed in Victoria by Morriss Printing Company in 1969); Winspear makes known his national pride. It isn't made with the harshness that Fr. Murray may be tempted to use. It shows modestly and, above all, very constructively and honestly.

A golf writer, I suppose should write about golfers. Winspear qualifies but in this particular instance it is the man and not the golfer who is most fascinating.

I like, for example, Winspear's demands from executives.

"The businessman," he says, "must be a leader; have a

"The businessman," he says, "must be a leader; have a capacity to inspire. He should be an avowed enemy of low-morale. He must understand organization and the flow of responsibility. He should be, too, something of a teacher...challenging (his junior) executives to think accurately... to develop the best qualities and discourage the failings of those who work under him."

It is that sort of thinking that carried Winspear to the top echelons in business. Among his credentials: Professor of accountancy at the University of Alberta until he discontinued lecturing in 1948; the first Canadian chartered accountant to be appointed a director of a Canadian bank (Toronto); President of the Canadian bank (Toronto); be appointed a director of a Canadian bank (Toronto); President of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in 1950; member of the Economic Council of Canada; Agent of the ustodian of Enemy Property in Alberta during the Second World War, and, in addition, president of several industries, ranging from wholesale merchandising to oil, lumber and airlines.

Winspear is a member at both Glen Meadows and Victoria clubs as well as Mayfair in Edmonton. Now 70, he has maintained a summer home at Ardmore since 1943.

Officially, his domicile remains Edmonton but "we've been spending more and more time at Ardmore in recent years."

As always, he looks forward "to catching more fish and heed the frappenings around him.

That's why the district golfers can look forward to a pleasant Island Cup windup next fall.

ON THURSDAY AND FRIDAY-JUNE 20TH 2PM & 21ST

We are men who work in the mines of British Columbia. We are tunnelworkers, diamond drillers, steelworkers, carpenters, painters, machinists, drivers and prospectors. All of us depend on MINING for our livelihoods.

There are tens of thousands of us in British Columbia, and our industry generates 25¢ of every dollar in the pockets and purses of our fellow British Columbians. Now, many of our jobs are being eliminated because of the policies of this government. We are some of the "little people" they talk about so much, and WE NEED HELP!

We are going to Victoria - by car, truck, bus, ferry and plane, to ask the NDP government NOT to take away our jobs, our way of life, and we want them to Already, many companies and many millions of dollars are moving away from B.C. - to the Yukon, the Northwest Territories, Alberta - even Ireland, Latin America and Africa. What is going to happen to us, "the little people", when our mines are closed, and there are no new jobs? What is going to happen to those of us who are already unemployed, with no new exploration or development in sight?

WE APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE OF THIS PROVINCE WHO FEEL THAT THE POLICIES OF THIS GOVERNMENT ARE A THREAT TO THEIR JOBS, TO THEIR SECURITY, AND TO THEIR WAY OF LIFE, TO COME WITH US ON OUR MARCH TO VICTORIA. WE NEED YOUR HELP.

Thousands of us have written letters and signed petitions against this legislation. It has all been ignored. Premier Barrett and his ministers have refused to listen to us, to hear what we are saying.

BUT THE NDP GOVERNMENT CANNOT IGNORE THOUSANDS OF "THE PEOPLE" ON THE LAWNS IN FRONT OF THE LEGISLATURE BUILDINGS IN VICTORIA. THEY CANNOT CLAIM TO BE A GOVERNMENT OF "THE PEOPLE" IF THEY REFUSE TO LISTEN WHEN "THE PEOPLE" COME FROM ALL OVER B.C. TO PROTEST, TO MAKE THEIR VOICES HEARD.

We are not alone in our frustration. In the last 22 months, many many individuals and companies have suffered as a result of NDP legislation. Thousands of British Columbians have stood by helplessly while their jobs, their businesses, their futures have been disrupted or threatened by the policies of this government.

Now is the time to join together and march to Victoria - to tell them to stop!

LET US MAKE IT CLEAR TO ALL OF CANADA THAT THE MAJORITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIANS OPPOSE THE POLICIES OF THIS GOVERNMENT.

On Thursday and Friday - June 20th and 21st - men, women and children from all parts of B.C. will converge on the legislature in Victoria.

Working people from all over B.C. will address the crowds on how the "working man" will suffer, and what will happen to our living standards and jobs if these socialist policies are allowed to continue.

People from other sectors of our provincial economy - forest industry, insurance, farming, tourism, fishing and manufacturing - will be given an opportunity to express their feelings and ideas on how they are affected.

Representatives of the Social Credit, Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties, who have fought long and hard for the principles of a free society, will be invited to speak on the issues that concern all of us.

We will ask Premier Barrett and his Minister of Mines, Leo Nimsick, to come out and listen to the voices of thousands of "the people" they claim to represent.

WE WILL DEMAND THAT BILL 31 BE WITHDRAWN, AND THAT THE THREAT TO OUR JOBS BE REMOVED.

WHAT IF THE LEGISLATURE IS NO LONGER IN SESSION?

We are going to Victoria in any case. The legislature can be recalled. The cabinet can be recalled. This government, like any government in a democratic system, is elected by "the people", and sits as the servant of the people, not as the master.

WHAT IF BILL 31 HAS ALREADY BEEN PASSED?

Bill 31 can be repealed. Bill 31 can be changed or amended just as easily as it can be passed. The wishes of "the people" must be heard, or we no longer have a democracy.

This could well be the most important demonstration in favour of a free society in the history of British Columbia. Each of us owes something to our fellow man, to our children, to our province. There comes a time when we must stop talking and stand up to be counted. This is the time for British Columbians.

Please join us in Victoria on Thursday and Friday. Let us make it clear, once and for all, that British Columbians are a people to be reckoned with when their basic jobs and freedoms are threatened.

LET'S MAKE IT CLEAR WHILE WE STILL HAVE A CHANCE. THIS MARCH HAS BEEN ORGANIZED BY MINERS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

Fragrant Summer Breeze Needs More than Color

Summer gardens would seem the natural places to sniff for fragrant plants, yet it is possible to visit many without getting even a suspicion of flower fragrance.

Renowned for sweet fragrance are several members of the Philadelphus, the Mock-orange.

Hybrids with names such as Avalanche, Belle Etoile and Innocence are among the best. The large double hybrid Virginal gives some fragrance but with us it is not particularly noticeable.

If roses are chosen for fragrance, a very few will suffice to bring summer perfume to a sunny garden. One large climber like the not-really-old Albertine introduced in 1921, will do the job for it makes immense growth if encouraged to do so, and flowers for four or five weeks. The matchless fragrance carries far and wide, day and night.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"YA KNOW THAT NEW VASE YOU LIKE SO WELL?"

Among the big German irises are several with delightful honey fragrance; they should be chosen in bloom for individual preference for combination of color and fragrance.

Peonies have a few worth planting for their contribution to summer fragrance apart from beauty of flower and foliage all season; one, Sarah Bernhardt, a fine midsummer rose pink is outstanding, a few others have a little scent.

Border pinks and carnations are free with their scent; a recent column dealt with some of these.

Scented foliage is as important as fragrant flowers but not too frequently is it freely noticeable on the air without its being bruised or crushed.

Neither lavender and rosemary, nor mint has noticeable fragrance unless handled or crushed. I think it is rarely that our atmosphere is just right for releasing the essential oils.

They need a combination of heat and humidity such as may be present in the native environment where lavender and rosemary grow on the hills around the Mediterranean.

Cistus, the genus of Rock-roses, has one of two species whose foliage is stickily fragrant on hot days. The tiny oil glands exude fragrant oil but it is only discernible in hot

Our native trees have some of the finest of strong fragrances. Who will ever tire of the heady clean odor of Bal-sam-popiar? According to the records of the American Contract Bridge League, the all-time top-ranking player in the United States Congress has been the late Representative John C. Kunkel, of Pennsylvania. FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"I finished your multiplication," Joe told his grand-Pather. "The answer's this 6-figure number that's your age written down three times in a row."

Sam smiled. "Yes, it's a funny number," he deplied. "It's divisible without any remainder by each of its digits, and also by your father's age. And the digits of that are the digits of my age but in re-verse order."

The boy checked. "You know what?" he asked. "The same things happened the year I was born."

How old was Joe? Thanks for an idea to C. J. Willis, London, Ontario.

PREGNANCY

WASHINGTON (AP) - The

United States Supreme Court upheld a California law Mon-day preventing the payment of disability benefits to women who must miss work

The 6-to-3 decision reversed a lower court order requiring the state to extend benefits to pregnant women, a move Ca-lifornia officials estimated would cost more than $100 million annually.

Writing for the majority, Justice Potter Stewart said the exclusion of women with normal pregnancies does not violate the constitution's guarantee of equal protection under the law.

The Supreme Court said if California were forced to make disability payments for pregnancies, it also would be forced to increase significantly the contribution of all employees to the insurance.

for normal pregnancies.

City to Plug Gas Hazards At Stations

An overhaul of Victoria's fire prevention bylaw to tackle the problem of leakage from underground gasoline storage tanks was recom-mended today, after city al-dermen were told of several incidents involving hazard to life and extensive damage to property.

Fire Chief Fric Simmons said in a report there have been several leaks from undefground tanks containing flammable liquids, which caused "untold damage" when they entered the underground duct network of B.C. phone Company.

Fire prevention officer Art Leason said there have been several major spills in the same location in recent years, including incidents at Hillside 1972, and March, 1973, which knocked out telephone systems and caused hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of

One tank failed, he said. within 24 months of installa-tion. Firemen had had to evacuate doctors' and dentists' offices when gas started seeping through drains.

Leason said certain soil conditions tend to accelerate tank deterioration, and most spills in underground facilities occur through lack of supervision.

"We can't get at them, examine them and determine if the lines are in good shape," he said. He said the leakage problem tends to be "insidious" as they can go undetected for months until the next heavy rain affects the water table.

Simmons said the maxi m u m capacity of un-derground flammable liquid tanks isn't stipulated in the fire prevention bylaw, and in a recent case his department "arbitrarily" set the permitted level at 18,000 gallons. The company had wanted to increase its storage from 9,000

But Ald. Sam Bawlf said the crux of the problem ap-pears to be the design specifications for tanks, rather than the permitted maximum fig-recommendation calling for a review of the city bylaw to demand construction standards, with emphasis on greater safety and inspection

Simmons' report said there are 77 gasoline outlets and garages in the city with underground storage facilities totalling more than 670,000

JAIL HOUSE BLUES PLAYED

There's bound to be safer places to blow your horn than in front of the store from which it was stolen.

OXTAIL SOUP DONE A DAY IN ADVANCE

A classmate from nursing school 19 years ago and a visiting them in tulip time in Ottawa and we planned a proper ladies' luncheon: roper ladies luncheon:

Today I am giving you the recipe for the Oxtail Soup because it is the kind of a main course soup I enjoy passing on. It serves 8 to 10 and at present beef prices is to be considered an economical and nutritional meal. Later on this month watch for the moulded salad and cheese muffins.

OXTAIL SOUP (serves 8 to 10)
2 lbs. oxtails — separated at 2 medium onions chopped 8 c. warm water 14 c. pot barley 11/2 tsp. salt (first amount) 4 peppercorns 4 bay leaf

4 c. diced (4") carrot sherry (optional - see below)

On the afternoon of the day brown the separated oxtails brown the separated oxtalls with the onions. No extra fat is needed as the oxtalls have plenty. You must keep moving them around to prevent onions burning. This took me about 20 minutes. Then add the water, barley, salt (first appears), and represents and first appears of the separate amount) and peppercorns and simmer covered about 6 hours. (I tried to cook them long enough for the meat to fall from bones but it would not.) Chill covered overnight. In the morning skim off all of the fat and discard it (or use it for some other purpose we made a Yorkshire Pudding.) Now take off your rings and patiently take all of the meat from the bones. I had 2 cups when chopped. Return meat to broth and add the bay leaf, carrot, celery, salt (second amount) and beef-cordial Simmer until vegetables are tender, about 25 minutes. If desired at the last minute add the traditional 1/4 to 1/2 cup sherry and serve boiling hot.

B.C. Tel present their new car telephone.

We call it the "town-'ncountry" car telephone because it works equally well for you almost anywhere you happen to be driving in North America — in fact it works very much the same as your home or business phone.

That's because it is a channel scanning car telephone, which continually and automatically scans 13 channels looking for an incoming call. You are no longer restricted to a standby channel to receive calls. You have full use of the large network of VHF land mobile channels strategically located throughout Canada and the U.S.A., which provide coverage to most main highways and cities.

Another big plus — there's no more of that irritating push-to-talk-release-to-listen routine. With our "town-'ncountry" car telephone you talk and listen in the same way as on a normal phone.

Add to this 100% solid state circuitry, low battery drain, selective calling (only your phone is signalled on incoming calls), a call indicator lamp and optional horn signal (for calls when you're away from the vehicle) and an exceptionally compact unit small enough to fit under your dash... and you'll begin to understand why our latest car telephone is so far ahead of most other mobile radiotelephones.

If you're in business or a profession, but haven't yet tried the convenience of a car telephone, this new B.C. Tel model is the ideal way to get acquainted with the real value of the service. Wherever you drive, you can keep continuously in touch . . . make appointments . . . reschedule your working day . authorize important decisions . . . all without returning to your office.

Week in and week out a car telephone saves busy people time and money. Now, B.C. Tel offers you one of the most efficient units on the market. Maintenance and repairs (if necessary) cost you nothing - and the monthly rental may be a pleasant surprise to you. Only one word of warning ...

Present supplies of our "town-'n-country" car telephone are limited. So why not call our Marketing Department for full infomation today? In Victoria the number is 386-2211.
